As a second-year MBA student of WSGE University, I like the fact that the course structure, gives me flexibility to both study and work without any restrictions! I have been working in an MNC named Money Gram in Warsaw since a year and I manage studies with good results too. Thank you, WSGE!

Mahmud-Al-Hasan Rifat

WSGE helped me in receiving good quality education and practical skills and competencies. I also received a lot of support from the Staff and faculty in my study, and even for pick-up, accommodation, orientation and Erasmus internships. I could also visit many countries without additional immigration procedures on Schengen visa.

MESSAGE FROM RECTOR OFFICE

International students at our University became our priority. We're trying our best to make them feel comfortable in Poland and WSGE and provide the best quality of education during the time of their study. As a Vice-Rector of WSGE I believe that our students with European degree granted at WSGE are prepared to get employed anywhere across the globe - Prof. Magdalena Sitek, Vice-Rector of WSGE

Working with students from so many different countries for me is a great adventure. As a Director of International Relations Office at WSGE I have a great chance to meet students in their home country and explain the great value of international degree. Here in Poland our students are getting the best possible educational service but apart of this we arrange together cultural, sport and entertainment events. These all factors bring me to the point that WSGE became small intercultural planet where everyone can find his own place and feel unique. - Marta Bojaruniec, MA. Director of International Relations Office

WSGE gives you the resources you need to achieve your goals through our academic staff and the library. WSGE is a melting pot of cultures, which I enjoy very much. WSGE lecturers own not only an academic background, but have also a large professional experience working in small, medium, and large companies. Some of them also run own companies. - Nicolas Levi, PhD. WSGE Lecturer
